

The image displays a 20x20 grid of hexagonal tiles. Each tile contains a unique black-and-white geometric pattern. The patterns are composed of various shapes such as triangles, squares, circles, and lines, arranged in a way that creates a complex, non-repeating visual texture across the entire grid. Some tiles feature simple motifs like a single triangle or a small square, while others contain more intricate designs involving multiple overlapping shapes or symmetrical arrangements.